7 Habits for Highly Effective People

With Sean Frontz of FranklinCovey
Monday, September 11, 2006
8:30 am to 4:30 pm

Presented by Landscape Ontario and SIMA

Sponsored by Eco Solutions, Inc.

Build a Foundation of Effectiveness

Successful organizations and teams depend on personal performance. True, fully-aligned workforce performance demands that all employees share a common vision around your business mission, values, and goals. This seminar will enable your employees to become more effective, both personally and professionally.

With Franklin Covey's one-day 7 Habits of Highly Effective People introductory workshop for associates, you can achieve sustainable superior performance across your entire organization.

The universal principles taught in this workshop allow you to develop a common framework for improving character and harnessing the capacity of your workforce. This is even more critical as a new generation enters the workplace with a new set of values, perceptions, and expectations.

Your organization will:

- Improve teamwork
- Increase alignment between work activities and goals
- Increase productivity and accountability

Sean's energetic instructional style is the result of years of working with people to help them achieve the most they can from life. His diverse background in Training, Sales, Management, and Finance allows him to bring real world experience to the principles and concepts he teaches. His work with major companies such as Home Depot, Wachovia Bank, MBNA, and Johns Hopkins University has given Sean unique opportunities to view the world.
